REPUBLICAN DEVICE.

TO VOTE THE REPUBLICAN
TICKET PUT THE X
UNDER THE LOG CABIN.

The Republican State Central Committee recently adopted the Log Cabin as the emblem to be placed upon the Republican ballots instead of the Eagle against the use of which the Democrats were about instituting an injunction. The Log Cabin is the emblem adopted by the old Whigs in the campaign of 1840 and the suggestion was found here. To vote the Republican ticket stamp the X in the space below the Log Cabin.

From bad to worse and from worse to worst is the progress the Kentucky Democracy is now making.

THE REPUBLICAN gives its readers this week a Supplement containing a complete report of the joint debate between Gen. Hardin and Col. Bradley at Louisville on the 19th.

THE Louisville Post gives a list of Kentucky Democratic papers which are for Sound Money and against Joe Blackburn. Our contemporary is not mentioned in the list. Wonder where it stands?

THE Louisville Post has denounced Hardin and refuses to support him for Governor. The great German daily of Louisville has done the same and the Courier-Journal is so weak in its support as to be charged with secret opposition. The way of a Free Silver man on a straddle platform is indeed hard.

FISCH'S CURE FOR Cough, Sore Throat, Hoarseness, Asthma, Consumption.
Best Cough Syrup, Throat Lozenges, and all the latest improvements in the treatment of the above diseases.

There is a growing sentiment in the country in favor of a well devised stock law.

So long as Kentucky is able to furnish the world with 48 murders in 49 days her reputation for lawlessness is in no great danger of being impaired.

HARTFORD needs an ordinance against the town cow and the town hog, which members of society are and have been making life almost unbearable. The hog and the cow are a nuisance, sadly in need of quelling.

The debate at Louisville Monday night between Hardin and Bradley was a triumph for the latter and a defeat for the former. Bradley came out of the contest with a still stronger hold upon the people, while Hardin came out not only a worsted debater, but a losing candidate, having driven the Louisville Post, a great Democratic paper, into open revolt and having made it impossible for the Courier-Journal to give him any but half hearted support.

HON. A. C. THOMPSON, the man whom the Princeton Banner (Dem.) gave such a going over last week, is the Democratic nominee for the Legislature from the City of Owensboro. Mr. Thompson wrote an article to one of the Magazines recently in which he contended that the age of consent should be twelve years. With this for a text the Banner proceeded to give the gentleman such a lambasting as is seldom accorded to mortals this side of purgatory, but the Democracy is expected to support him.

THE Herald backs squarely out of its statement made last week regarding the appointment of the officers of election by the County Judge and says it was wrong. Of course it was wrong or THE REPUBLICAN would not have said so, but there are some gross doubts as to whether it was a mistake. The Herald should have named the party to whom the County Judge said the statement made by the Herald was a "damned malicious lie," and also that the County Judge tried in vain to find out who of the Herald force was responsible for the publication. If nobody is responsible for the publication of a newspaper it should close up shop.

How many of our citizens ever thought that the choicest building lots in the town have never been touched? People talk of Hartford's being crowded and that building lots are scarce. As beautiful locations almost as nature ever created are lying unimproved right in the town. Reference is made to the beautiful, almost picturesque, river front lying between the bridge and the steam mill. A street opened between these two points would open up a portion of the town which, for building purposes, is unexcelled. If you have never considered the question or if you are incredulous after having perused these lines take a stroll up the river from the bridge and convince yourself. Water Street could be made a most interesting drive and the beautiful knolls along the way are sites worthy of mansions. The question is worth the serious consideration of our city dads and the owners of property facing the river between the points named.

In many respects Hartford is a most remarkable town and possesses business and commercial advantages of far reaching importance. It is located near the center of the fourth largest county of the Commonwealth, a county renowned alike for its timber, mineral and agricultural wealth. In the two former it excels any of its border counties and in the latter is second only to Daviess. It is washed along almost its entire southern border by the largest river lying wholly within the State, a river only recently made free to navigation. Through the center of the county flows the beautiful Rough River, just now being opened to navigation. The rich bottom lands along both these streams and especially along the latter, are just being reclaimed and put into cultivation. The county has a larger railroad mileage than any other county in this part of the State. In schools, teachers and general intelligence the county ranks with the foremost in the State. So much for the county. The town is none the less distinguished in many respects. There is not a town in Kentucky of equal population that can boast of an able board of physicians, an able bar, an able ministry, a better College, or a more refined and intelligent citizenship. The business men of Hartford are substantial and progressive and there is scarcely $500 borrowed capital among our merchants. There have been fewer financial failures in Hartford than any other town of like size in the State. The location of the place is healthful and is well adapted to manufacturing. Seeing that we have so many advantages for town and county, there is no reason why our people should not look to the future with the very brightest prospects. Talk up the town and county.

On account of Catholic Picnic at Grayson Springs Ky., station Aug. 17th tickets will be on sale that date at one fare for the round trip good to 18th to return.

HURRAH!

The Louisville Anzeigerer Will not Support Hardin.

EDITORIAL GIVING REASONS.

Does not Like the Money Part of
His Speech.

Says He Will Lose the German Vote of the State.

WILL NOT LIFT A FINGER

The Louisville Anzeiger, the leading German paper of the State is very much dissatisfied with Mr. Hardin's construction of the Democratic platform and announces that it will not support him. The Anzeiger says: "Mr. Hardin, the Democratic candidate for Governor, has taken his choice between his party and the silver demagogue Blackburn, between the honest and the swindler dollar, between honor and shame, between victory and defeat. He has decided for Blackburn, swindler dollar, shame and defeat. Under the whip of Blackburn, threateningly held over his head, he has become a weakling, a traitor to his party, and what is perhaps the worst of all—an impossible candidate. For, as long as the policy of the two great American parties is not directed by fools and knaves, a candidate who is a follower of Joe Blackburn will always be an absolute monstrosity on a platform for honest money."

The Louisville Anzeiger does not deny for a moment that it has been put in a very embarrassing position by Mr. Hardin's speech, but it has not hesitated for a second what it had to do under the circumstances. It follows that course which honor and patriotism direct.

"The Anzeiger has carried the flag of its party in sunshine and storm. In many a bitter political battle it has demonstrated that its Democracy is not merely a thin varnish, but that its whole heart and soul are filled with the great, noble and liberal principles of its party. But more than its party the Anzeiger values the interest of the American business world, the national credit and the honor of the country. Whoever dares to attack the foundations of this holy trinity ceases to be the friend of the Anzeiger."

"The Anzeiger could avoid the issue by saying that the silver question is decided at Washington and not at Frankfurt, and that it is therefore of little consequence what opinions Mr. Hardin entertain on the question, but the Anzeiger in not in the habit of bellying itself."

"We have assured Mr. Hardin repeatedly, and in the strongest language, that the German Democrats of Louisville are unanimously for honest money and that they will never degrade themselves to vote for a follower and accomplice of Blackburn. He may now see how he gets along without the German vote of Kentucky. The Anzeiger is not going to move a finger to get a single German vote for him. If the Democrats of Kentucky do not at the eleventh hour nominate a new candidate, a man who better appreciates the honor of standing on a platform that protects the highest interest of the country, the Anzeiger will, as far as the position of Governor is concerned, be a passive looker-on during the rest of the campaign. We have not yet decided for ourselves, which would be the greater evil, a Republican boss or a hireling of Joe Blackburn in the Capitol at Frankfurt. Therefore we avoid both evils by simply ignoring the Governor's election."

"And the Anzeiger is convinced that its readers will fully appreciate the stand it has taken. It is a most painful duty for us to declare warfare on the man who stands as the head of the Democratic ticket, but, in spite of loyalty to its party, the Anzeiger has never given up its right of having an opinion of its own, and it makes use of this right to-day by openly declaring that, in its eyes, Hardin no longer exists as the Democratic candidate for Governor."

Danger Predicted.
The Democratic and Republican parties in Kentucky have both in convention assembled pronounced for sound money. If Blackburn secures a majority of the Democratic nominees for the Legislature it is reasonably certain that the next Legislature of that State will be Republican.—[Nashville American.]

How Free Traders Create a Boom.
Eli Perkins has returned from a visit among the potters, glass men and iron men says the American Economist. When asked about the recent advance in wages he said: "I found that some glass, pottery and iron establishments which closed down in 1892 or dropped wages 25 per cent, have started up again, but none with the wages of 1892. In all the potteries wages were cut 12 1/2 per cent, by the Wilson bill and I found no instance where they had been restored. On account of the demand for structural iron for building purposes many of these iron mills were at work. In several cases where I have read in Free-Trade newspapers about wages being advanced I have written notes to the proprietors to get the truth.

We learn that Rev. I. H. Teel, pastor of the Christian Church, will begin a revival at Alexander the first Sunday night in September. We hope the people will awaken themselves to the cause of religion and let us have a good revival, for that is what the people of this vicinity need. The public is invited to attend. We especially invite all other Christian denominations to be with us. We are looking forward to a grand meeting.

LOST FAMILY AND HOME

Story of the Sad Life of a Virginian Man.

He Was the Victim of a Murderous Feud—His Home Ruined—His Wife and Child Killed—Going Out West.

The other day a sad-hearted man, with anguish set deeply in the furrows of a suffering face, passed through this city en route for the far west, says the Cincinnati Enquirer. His name is Ambrose Christian, and at one happy time in his life he was the owner of a fruitful little farm on the headwaters of New river, away up in the mountains of West Virginia. His pretty wife and child were then with him, and his heart was surrounded with good cheer; but, alas, sadly have events drawn the sable curtains of despair across the last chapters of this once happy and contented man's life. In the wild, rugged country where Mr. Christian's farm set, like a flower bed among thorns, lived a few families here and there who were full of the feudal spirit and constantly warred against each other. In one of these feuds Christian became entangled, and from that time on a minute's peace was never meted out to him. On one cold winter night he was called to his door by the voice of one who was evidently in trouble. "Murder! Help! Help!" came the appeal, and Mr. Christian leaped to his door to receive a shot from some cowardly assassin in ambush. His wound came near being fatal, and for weeks he lay at the point of death. The ruffians ceased hostilities during the time, but as soon as he was on the road to recovery they began again to threaten his life. About four years ago he woke one night to find his neat little farm home in flames. Gathering up his little babe that was only a few weeks old he ran with his wife for life, as the rafters were then falling in. As the little family ran distracted from the flames the brutes who had set the building on fire had the heartlessness and inhumanity to again fire upon him, and his wife and child were murdered in cold blood before his eyes. Knowing the mountain paths well he managed to escape death himself, and with one arm shattered by a rifle ball he beat his retreat into the thick bushes of the hills. Then followed a period of three years, during which he was a wanderer over the country, heart-broken and forlorn.

At last, hoping that his enemies had forgotten the trouble, he wandered back to look again at the green spot where once he was so happy. He returned to the little farm in the hills and found it occupied by another; nor could he find any trace of the spot where his wife and babe had been buried. He was not allowed to search very long, however, for on the fourth day after he arrived a shot from behind a tree some distance from him gave warning that his presence was known. Up to this time he firmly believed that nobody had recognized him. The ball from the bushwhacker came near closing the last sad chapter of a life no longer worth the living. For over five months he managed to escape death, and like a wandering refugee, lived around the country near his beloved farm. At last, wearying of the strain the task imposed upon him of keeping up such an unequal fight, he concluded to abandon everything and go far away into the west in search of a little peace. While waiting for a train at the Grand Central depot he told the story of his life's tragedy to an Enquirer reporter, and as the train pulled out it took one with it whose burden of sorrows might have freighted an argosy.

Eccentric Dressers.
Members of parliament in England seem to share, in common with omnibus drivers, a partiality for a white high hat, an article of headgear otherwise almost extinct. The appearance of the first white hat in the house of commons is announced with as much gusto as the coming of the swallow or the first performance by the cuckoo. The eccentricities of dress have at times brought members of parliament distinction; as, for instance, the first man who wore a straw hat in the house, and the first member who ventured to enter St. Stephen's in brown shoes, the latter being Lord Randolph Churchill.

Newspaper Advertising.
It is significant that summer hotel circulars and "booklets" are not as numerous as they were. Proprietors and managers have about reached the conclusion that they are a waste of money, that people do not believe them any more than they do "Alice in Wonderland," "Baron Munchausen's Tales," or "Gulliver's Travels," and that, after all, advertising by means of the press is most advantageous and profitable, and, from every point of view, cheapest in the end.—Hotel Mail.

Eastern and Western Farming.

The census figures show that Lancaster County, Pa., is the leading county of the United States in the value of its agriculture products, the total being $7,657,790. Next comes St. Lawrence County, N. Y., with $6,054,160; then Chester County, Pa., with $5,863,800; then Worcester County, Mass., with $5,480,430; and then Bucks County, Pa., with $5,411,370. It will surprise the general reader to learn that the five counties ranking highest in this respect are not in the great agriculture empire of the West, but in the manufacturing region of the East, three of them in one State. This certainly does not indicate that the protection tariff under which the manufacturing industries of the country have been established has proved detrimental to the farmers. The fact is that such industries have provided an enlarged market for farm products, and thus made agriculture more profitable and increased the value of lands used for that purpose. There are many drawbacks to farming in the East, but the advantages of being close to a good market are sufficient to overcome them and to insure success where it would otherwise be practically impossible.

It is not to this fact alone, however, that the prosperity of the Eastern farmers is attributable. They manage their affairs in a different way from that which is followed in the West. Their farms are comparatively small as a rule, and they cultivate them thoroughly, thereby obtaining the best result. Then they are also economical and careful to utilize everything that they produce, whereas the Western farmers, generally speaking, waste almost as much as they save, because of their larger farms and the loose methods that come from trying to accomplish too much. A good deal of this waste is unavoidable, of course, since the great staple must be extensively raised in order to yield a satisfactory return; but it might be materially reduced by the adoption of a better system of farming. The average Western farmer is at a disadvantage, furthermore, by reason of his obstinate reliance upon a single crop. He is wedded to corn or wheat, as the Southern farmer is to cotton, and will not see how much better it would be for him to diversify his products, and increase his income by adding to the sources from which it is derived. In time he will certainly learn this important lesson, and whenever he begins to conduct his business according to the frugal and prudent Eastern plan, he will find it far more profitable.—[Globe-Democrat.]

Will They Vote for Hardin.

Wonder if the coal miners have so soon forgotten the time when the convict labor question agitated the public mind and directly interfered with their wages and the maintenance of their families. Have they forgotten that P. Wat Hardin, the same P. Wat who would now ask your support in his race for the gubernatorial chair, was the secretary of State? Have the coal miners forgotten that it was this P. Wat Hardin who raised his voice and used his vote and influence toward having convicts take the place of miners in the production of coal? Will the coal miners of Kentucky kiss their wives and children good by on the morning of the election and go cast their ballots for this Hardin who attempted to rob them of their bread by filling their places with convict labor? We believe not. The miners of Kentucky are men and not political hirelings to shout aloud when the party man is raised. They will vote for their families—for their wives, for their children and for their homes, and against this man Hardin who would rob them of their occupation. —[Central City Republican.]

BASE BALL.
A Lively Game At Beaver Dam Last Saturday.
They Came, They Saw, We Conquered.
On last Saturday the following named young men: A. Ranney, E. Blankenship, Bud Gentry, D. Davis, W. Shields, R. Gentry, F. Cooper, R. Taylor and S. Reid came to Beaver Dam calling themselves the Cromwell Base Ball Nine. They crossed bats on the home grounds with the Beaver Dam Club composed of J. Barras, E. Cates, J. M. Barras, Cornelius, J. Maury, E. Eazy, F. Taylor, O. Williams and Whittinghill, and when the game was over the scraps left of the Cromwell's gathered themselves together and stole stealthily out of town.
Their name is Mr. McGinty Mudd, and they learned a thing or two about base ball.
The Cromwells made 7 scores, the Beaver Dams 29, with eight times at the bat.
Jasper Maddox umpired. Our club challenges any other club in the county.

CARSON-BEAN.

Two of Hartford's Popular Young People to be Married.

Next Tuesday two of Hartford's most popular young people will be married at the Methodist Church in Hartford. Monday morning the many friends of Mr. J. Henry Carson and Miss Anna Bean were somewhat surprised to receive an invitation to their wedding for the above named date, although all agree that they are admirably suited for each other.
They have both been residents of Hartford about all their lives. Mr. Carson is the head of the well known and popular firm of Carson & Co., and Miss Bean is the youngest daughter of Rev. G. J. Bean and is loved by everyone who knows her, and is a highly cultured, refined young lady.
Immediately after the ceremony they will leave for an extended visit to New York, Niagara and other places of interest, after which they will take up their residence in Hartford.

IN POWDER MILLS.

The Death Rate Much Less Than Generally Supposed.

Apart from the danger of explosions, says McClure's Magazine, which, by the way, are less frequent than is generally supposed, gunpowder mills are exceedingly healthful places. Such a thing as a workman dying of consumption is unheard of, the explanation being that the constant breathing into the lungs of dust containing charcoal, sulphur and saltpetre is beneficial to them. Even horses employed in gunpowder mills are found to be fatter and sleeker than their fellows from the same stable worked elsewhere. As to the death rate in powder mills, the popular ideas are much exaggerated, the average freight yard being vastly more fatal than they. Statistics show that from the beginning of this century, when the Du Pont powder mills were established, up to the present year, there has been an average of not quite one death a year from accidents or explosions.

As among the employers, so among the men. Fear is almost unknown, the black-faced fellows shoveling the gunpowder about as if it were coal and walking through it knee deep, as they would through so much flour. They are perfectly happy, these stolid Irishmen,

A RAZOR-BACK SHIP.

Expected to Revolutionize the Ocean Carrying Trade.

Long and Narrow Hull on the Palace Car Idea—To Cross the Atlantic in Three-Fifths of the Present Time.

Lying at a private wharf in Alexandria, Va., is a very remarkable ship, says Harper's Weekly. She is the first of a new type of vessel intended to revolutionize the ocean carrying trade. If the hopes of Mr. Fryer, the designer and builder of the ship, are realized, passengers will cross the Atlantic in three-fifths of the time now occupied by the "ocean greyhounds" of commerce.

Mr. Fryer has sought to apply the palace-car idea to ocean travel. He has built a ship which, while 222 feet long, is only 16 feet beam. Its equilibrium is to be maintained by the heavy keel and by the 80,000 pounds of machinery below the water line. The narrow prow of such a vessel will cut the water like a knife. Resistance will be reduced to a minimum. The heavy compact machinery will furnish ample power for the single screw, and the little razor back vessel will cleave through the water at a rate of speed which will seem incredible at first. All this, of course, if Mr. Fryer's hopes are realized. The vessel is to have a practical test in the lower Potomac river in a short time. Then the Howard Cassard, as the new ship is called, will be taken to New York.

The ship now approaching completion at Alexandria is built to four-fifths the scale of the full-sized ship. The transatlantic liner of this model will be 555 feet long, and she will be 40 feet beam. Measure 40 feet on a level piece of ground and you will get some idea how narrow the ship will be. And from a greatest breadth of 40 feet she will taper to almost nothing.

Of course, with such a vessel the carrying of freight would be out of the question. There is a main deck, a cabin deck and the hold. And the hold is quite filled with machinery. The upper deck is only a promenade, and the cabin deck is so narrow that there is not space between the walls of the ship for even so luxurious a cabin as some private yachts contain. Such a thing as a general cabin would be out of the question. This narrow space has been utilized in part by the construction of single staterooms on each side, a narrow aisle running down the middle of the ship. The remaining space is to be divided up like a sleeping car, adjustable berths, upper and lower, will be concealed during the day, and each "section" will be supplied with handsomely upholstered seats. In these sections meals will be served from a galley in the hold, on small tables, just as they are served in a buffet car. There will be a toilet room for men at one end of the ship, and a toilet room for women at the other. When night comes the seats in the sections will be transformed into beds, the upper berths will be let down if they are needed, and each section will be screened from the aisle by portieres. In running to tropical countries the new vessels will carry a certain quantity of fine fruit, and two of the section spaces will be given up to refrigerators.

EXPERT SWIMMERS.

How Arab Boys Shoot the Rapids of the Nile.

Arab boys are expert swimmers, and, like boys in general, are fond of displaying their skill before strangers if only they are rewarded by some small coin. Mr. Eden, says the Family Magazine, tells how they shoot the rapids of the Nile. Seating themselves astride of a log of wood about six feet long and buoyant enough to support them waist high out of the water, they ride it with the seat and gesture of a jockey, and with both hands and feet keep it straight with the line of the current.

The fall is shot with an ease and grace that does away with the sense of danger one would expect to feel at seeing a man hurled along amid such a boil and turmoil of water, but once at the bottom, they have a hard struggle to induce their horses to turn out of the course.

To do this, they avail themselves of the impetus acquired by the log in its shoot and, throwing themselves full length upon it, they seem, with a sudden stroke from the left leg and arm, to drive it and themselves out of the current.

To fall in this would be dangerous even to Arab swimmers. Immediately below lie the ugly rocks on which the heavy stream breaks with fearful violence.

From One Evil to Another.

Honeycomb Trouble.

Just outside the Grand Central Station the other day I saw an old man looking so sad and sorrowful that I suspected he was in deep trouble and made bold to ask him what had happened.

"You see the hotel over there?" he queried in reply as he pointed.

"Of course."

"Waal, over there in room 82, is my bride—my second wife. She is layin' across th' bed mad and sulky and sheddin' tears, and I am out here feelin' that I'd give $10,000 if I'd never married her."

"You are in New York on your bridal tour, eh?"

"That's it. Got spliced up at Cheung t'other day and cum down on a tower. I was a widower and she was a widow, case of lay at first sight, and we didn't spark but six weeks."

"And you have quarreled?"

"We hev. The widder gin me to understand that she was well fixed an' wouldn't want a dollar for a hull y'ar. We had no sooner got down here than she wanted silk stockings, new corsets, a $10 hat, long-handled gloves, lace handkerchiefs, a gold watch and lots of other things. I couldn't git 'em and she called me names. I tried to reason with her and she sailed into me. Yes, she's up there in room 82 kiddin' and sobbin' and poundin' on the wall and hevin' hystericks, and I'm down here feelin' that I'm the biggest fool in the State of New York. Did you ever marry a widder?"

"Never."

"Then you don't know how they order be handled?"

"No."

"Waal, I don't either. I recon I kin find out by experimentin' around. I'll go back to the hotel and pat her on the chin and pinch her ears. If that don't do, I'll threaten to leave her here and walk home. If she sasses me back on that I'll hunt around and find a bar of hard cider and git drunk and stay drunk a week and then run away to Iowa and let her flicker and be hanged to her."

HIS LIP GONE.

THE DIREFUL EFFECTS OF CANCER.

A Desperate Battle with this Terrible Disease, Lasting Thirty Years.

A Cure Found at Last.

There is not a more familiar figure on the streets of Atlanta than the man whose picture is here shown. Everybody knows him by sight and it will be remembered that years ago he began to wear on his upper lip, just under his nose, a small piece of court-plaster, not larger than a silver half dime; this plaster he has worn constantly, though it gradually increased in size, as everybody knows, until it was as large as a silver dollar. This man is M. M. Nicholson, who resides at the corner of Anderson and Curran Sts. It was thirty years ago, that he first noticed a tiny scale, like a piece of wheat bran, on his lip. He at first thought it only a fever blister, but it was not long before his cheeks became diseased and painful to the touch, and he soon realized that he had fallen a victim to that most dreadful and relentless disease—cancer. It rapidly increased in size and severity, and remembering that his father had cancer when he died, and that his uncle also lost his life by this terrible disease which destroyed his tongue, throat and left eye, Mr. Nicholson became thoroughly alarmed, and realized that his condition was more than serious.

Giving up entirely his business, he went to Cincinnati and remained for several months under treatment of a celebrated specialist. He was afterwards treated in Elmira, New York, where the cancer was twice removed, but he declares that death was preferable to such treatment. The disease seemed to be of a most virulent type, and the doctors afforded absolutely no relief, the cancer spreading all the time, eating out entirely the partition in his nose, as well as his upper lip and gums.

"Some months ago," he says, "I began to use S. S. S. though I admit with little faith at first, but to my surprise, a few bottles afforded some relief. Thus encouraged, I determined to give the medicine a thorough trial, and it was not long before the progress of the disease seemed checked. I continued the medicine, and remarkable as it may seem, I am cured and feel like I have a new life. I can talk more distinctly, for the flesh has begun to grow back around my teeth, where it has been heavily eaten away. S. S. S. is the most wonderful remedy in the world, and as my condition is pretty generally known, everybody will agree that the cure is indeed a most remarkable one. S. S. S. has given me a new hold on life, and I shall certainly sing its praises the remainder of my days."—Atlanta Constitution.

Of Interest to Ladies.

We offer no apology in placing before you "The Ladies Safe Protector," it is absolutely reliable, easily adjusted, does not become misplaced and insures protection. Can be worn when desired without observation or knowledge of another and prevents disagreeable annoyances under certain conditions. If you use it once you will never be without it. It is faithful, safe and reliable friend whenever you are in special circumstances requiring its use. It is an article every woman should keep ready for immediate use. It is simple to use, and inspires confidence to the woman using it. It is reliable and scientifically made, insures protection without injury to health, and any good physician would say. We are of the opinion that no article has ever been made which will give as much satisfaction to the women to-day as "The Ladies Safe Protector." The immense sales of this article is a substantial endorsement of our claim. Do not therefore experiment with any of the numerous unreliable articles, as it is both dangerous to health and expensive to do so. Such experimenting can only result in loss of time, disappointment and dismal failure. Ladies should remember this before ordering other goods and not waste their time and money on inferior articles. The best is always the cheapest. "The Ladies Safe Protector" is sold under a positive guarantee for use for one year, with full directions and is sent sealed in plain wrapper upon receipt of express money order for $2.00 three for $5.00. CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paragoric, Bismarck's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Dr. H. Pitcher is on every wrapper.

BIG PROFITS ON Small Investments.

Returning prosperity will make many rich, but no where can they make so much within a short time as by successful Speculation in Grain, Provision and Stock.

$10.00 FOR EACH DOLLAR invested can be made by our Systematic Plan of Speculation originated by us. All successful speculators operate on a regular system.

It is a well known fact that there are thousands of men in all parts of the United States who, by systematic trading through Chicago brokers, make large amounts every year, ranging from a few thousand dollars for the man who invests a hundred or two hundred dollars up to $50,000 to $100,000 or more by those who invest a few thousand.

It is also a fact that those who make the largest profits from comparatively small investments on this plan are persons who live away from Chicago and invest through brokers who thoroughly understand systematic trading.

Our plan does not risk the whole amount invested on any trade, but covers both sides, so that whether the market rises or falls it brings a steady profit that piles up enormously in a short time.

WRITE FOR CONVINCING PROOFS, also our Manual on successful speculation and our Daily Market Report, full of money-making pointers ALL FREE. Our Manual explains margin trading fully. Highest references in regard to our standing and success.

Expected to Revolutionize the Ocean Carrying Trade.

Long and Narrow and Built on the Palace Car Idea—To Cross the Atlantic in Three-Fifths of the Present Time.

Lying at a private wharf in Alexandria, Va., is a very remarkable ship, says Harper's Weekly. She is the first of a new type of vessel intended to revolutionize the ocean carrying trade. If the hopes of Mr. Fryer, the designer and builder of the ship, are realized, passengers will cross the Atlantic in three-fifths of the time now occupied by the "ocean greyhounds" of commerce.

Mr. Fryer has sought to apply the palace-car idea to ocean travel. He has built a ship which, while 222 feet long, is only 16 feet beam. Its equilibrium is to be maintained by the heavy keel and by the 80,000 pounds of machinery below the water line. The narrow prow of such a vessel will cut the water like a knife. Resistance will be reduced to a minimum. The heavy compact machinery will furnish ample power for the single screw, and the little razor back vessel will cleave through the water at a rate of speed which will seem incredible at first. All this, of course, if Mr. Fryer's hopes are realized. The vessel is to have a practical test in the lower Potomac river in a short time. Then the Howard Cassard, as the new ship is called, will be taken to New York.

The ship now approaching completion at Alexandria is built to four-fifths the scale of the full-sized ship. The transatlantic liner of this model will be 555 feet long, and she will be 40 feet beam. Measure 40 feet on a level piece of ground and you will get some idea how narrow the ship will be. And from a greatest breadth of 40 feet she will taper to almost nothing.

Of course, with such a vessel the carrying of freight would be out of the question. There is a main deck, a cabin deck and the hold. And the hold is quite filled with machinery. The upper deck is only a promenade, and the cabin deck is so narrow that there is not space between the walls of the ship for even so luxurious a cabin as some private yachts contain. Such a thing as a general cabin would be out of the question. This narrow space has been utilized in part by the construction of single staterooms on each side, a narrow aisle running down the middle of the ship. The remaining space is to be divided up like a sleeping car. Adjustable berths, upper and lower, will be concealed during the day, and each "section" will be supplied with handsomely upholstered seats. In these sections meals will be served from a galley in the hold, on small tables, just as they are served in a buffet car. There will be a toilet room for men at one end of the ship, and a toilet room for women at the other. When night comes the seats in the sections will be transformed into beds, the upper berths will be let down if they are needed, and each section will be screened from the aisle by portieres. In running to tropical countries the new vessels will carry a certain quantity of live fruit, and two of the section spaces will be given up to refrigerators.

EXPERT SWIMMERS.

How Arab Boys Shoot the Rapids of the Nile.

Arab boys are expert swimmers, and, like boys in general, are fond of displaying their skill before strangers if only they are rewarded by some small coin. Mr. Eden, says the Family Magazine, tells how they shoot the rapids of the Nile.

Seating themselves astride of a log of wood about six feet long and buoyant enough to support them waist high out of the water, they ride it with the seat and gesture of a jockey, and with both hands and feet keep it straight with the line of the current.

The fall is shot with an ease and grace that does away with the sense of danger one would expect to feel at seeing a man hurried along amid such a boil and turmoil of water, but once at the bottom, they have a hard struggle to induce their horses to turn out of the course.

To do this, they avail themselves of the impetus acquired by the log in its shoot and, throwing themselves full length upon it, they seem, with a sudden stroke from the left leg and arm, to drive it and themselves out of the current.

To fall in this would be dangerous even to Arab swimmers. Immediately below lie the ugly rocks on which the heavy stream breaks with fearful violence.

From One Evil to Another.

Lastrow—Women don't seem to wear those tall hats at the theaters any more. A man can see the stage now.

Ogleby—True. But the new bonnet sticks out so much at the sides you cannot see the women in the boxes.—N. Y. World.

Honeymoon Trouble. Just outside the Grand Central Station the other day I saw an old man looking so sad and sorrowful that I suspected he was in deep trouble and made bold to ask him what had happened.

"You see the hotel over there?" he queried in reply as he pointed. "Of course."

"Waal, over there in room 82, is my bride—my second wife. She is layin' across th' bed mad and sulky and sheddin' tears, and I am out here feelin' that I'd give $10,000 if I'd never married her."

"You are in New York on your bridal tour, eh?"

"That's it. Got spliced up at Cheung-t'other day and cum down on a tower. I was a widower and she was a widow, case of lost first sight, and we didn't spark but six weeks."

"And you have quarreled?"

"We hev. The widdler gin me to understand that she was well fixed an' wouldn't want a dollar for a bull y'ar. We had no sooner got down here than she wanted silk stockings, new corsets, a $10 hat, long-handled gloves, lace handkerchiefs, a gold watch and lots of other things. I couldn't git 'em and she called me names. I tried to reason with her and she sailed into me. Yes, she's up there in room 82 kiddin' and sobbin' and poundin' on the wall and hevin' hystericks, and I'm down here feelin' that I'm the biggest fool in the State of New York. Did you ever marry a widdler?"

"Never."

"Then you don't know how they order be handled?"

"No."

"Waal, I don't either. I recon I kin find out by experimentin' around. I'll go back to the hotel and pat her on the chin and pinch her ears. If that don't do, I'll threaten to leave her here and walk home. If she sasses me back on that I'll hunt around and find a bar's of hard cider and git drunk and stay drunk a week and then run away to Iowa and let her ficker and be hanged to her."

HIS LIP GONE.

THE DIREFUL EFFECTS OF CANCER.

A Desperate Battle with this Terrible Disease, Lasting Thirty Years.

A Cure Found at Last.

There is not a more familiar figure on the streets of Atlanta than the man whose picture is here shown. Everybody knows him by sight and it will be remembered that years ago he began to wear on his upper lip, just under his nose, a small piece of court-plaster, not larger than a silver half dime; this plaster he has worn constantly, though it gradually increased in size, as everybody knows, until it was as large as a silver dollar. This man is M. M. Nicholson, who resides at the corner of Anderson and Curran Sts. It was thirty years ago, that he first noticed a tiny scale, like a piece of wheat bran, on his lip. He at first thought it only a fever blister, but it was not long before his cheeks became diseased and puffed to the touch, and he soon realized that he had fallen a victim to that most dreadful and relentless disease—cancer. It rapidly increased in size and severity, and remembering that his father had cancer when he died, and that his uncle also lost his life by this terrible disease which destroyed his tongue, throat and eyes, Mr. Nicholson became thoroughly alarmed, and realized that his condition was more than serious.

Giving up entirely his business, he went to Cincinnati and remained for several months under treatment of a celebrated specialist. He was afterwards treated in Elmira, New York, where the cancer was twice removed, but he declares that death was preferable to such treatment. The disease seemed to be of a most virulent type, and the doctors afforded absolutely no relief, the cancer spreading all the time, eating out entirely the partition in his nose, as well as his upper lip and gums.

"Some months ago," he says, "I began to use S. S. S. though I admit with little faith that it could cure me, but to my surprise, a few bottles afforded some relief. Thus encouraged, I determined to give the medicine a thorough trial, and it was not long before the progress of the disease seemed checked. I continued the medicine, and remarkable as it may seem, I am cured and feel like I have a new life. I can talk more distinctly, for the flesh has begun to grow back around my teeth, where it has been literally eaten away. S. S. S. is the most wonderful remedy in the world, and as my condition is pretty generally known, everybody will agree that the cure is indeed a most remarkable one. S. S. S. has given me a new hold on life, and I shall certainly sing its praises the remainder of my days."—Atlanta Constitution.

Of Interest to Ladies. We offer no apology in placing before you "The Ladies Safe Protector," or, "it is absolutely reliable, easily adjusted, does not become misplaced and insures protection. Can be worn when desired without observation or knowledge of another and prevents disagreeable annoyances under certain conditions. If you use it once you will never be without it. It is faithful, safe and reliable friend whenever needed by special circumstances requiring its use. It is an article every woman should keep ready for immediate use. It is simple to use, and inspires confidence to the woman using it. It is reliable and scientifically made, insures protection without injury to health, and any good physician would say. We are of the opinion that no article has ever been made which will give as much satisfaction to the women to-day as "The Ladies Safe Protector." The immense sales of this article is a certain endorsement of our claim. Do not therefore experiment with any of the numerous unreliable articles, as it is both dangerous to health and expensive to do so. Such experimenting can only result in loss of time, disappointment and dismal failure. Ladies should remember this before ordering other goods and not waste their time and money on inferior articles. "The Ladies Safe Protector" is sold under a positive guarantee for use for one year, with full directions and is sent sealed in plain wrapper upon receipt of express money order for $2.00 or three for $5.00. Do not wait but order at once. Address, THE LA CROSE SPECIALTY CO., La Crosse, Wis.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Dr. H. Pitcher is on every wrapper.

BIG PROFITS ON Small Investments.

Returning prosperity will make many rich, but no where can they make so much within a short time as by successful Speculation in Grain, Provision and Stock.

$10.00 FOR EACH DOLLAR invested can be made by our Systematic Plan of Speculation originated by us. All successful speculators operate on a regular system. It is a well known fact that there are thousands of men in all parts of the United States who, by systematic trading through Chicago brokers, make large amounts every year, ranging from a few thousand dollars for the man who invests a hundred or two hundred dollars up to $50,000 to $100,000 or more by those who invest a few thousand.

It is also a fact that those who make the largest profits from comparatively small investments on this plan are persons who live away from Chicago and invest through brokers who thoroughly understand systematic trading.

Our plan does not risk the whole amount invested on any trade, but covers both sides, so that whether the market rises or falls it brings a steady profit that piles up enormously in a short time.

WITNESS FOR CONVINCING PROOFS, also our Manual on successful speculation and our Daily Market Report, full of money-making pointers ALL FREE. Our Manual explains money trading fully. Highest references in regard to our standing and success.
